Business Need

I want to provide a method where companies can post want ads for employment that my customers/employees would find valuable.

ITUpside Solution

ITUpside Jobs enables a website administrator to quickly and easily add a fully functional employment system to their website, with very little work required. Your customers/employees can easily add and cancel any employment notice, complete with images, while the station maintains editorial control.

ITUpside Jobs Product Description

Online employment notices can be easily implemented using our ITUpside Jobs System. Companies can easily post ads for any type of employment. The website administrator has full control over whether the employment ad gets posted or rejected, allowing a human filter to keep out objectionable material. Our ITUpside Jobs System can be used to bring customers/employees to your website. Especially when local employers for local people promote it as a local source of local employment.

Once the employment ad is posted, you can approve or reject the ad using the ITUpside Admin online administration tool. Notices will run for 1 month unless rejected by the administrator or the company that submitted the employment ad.

ITUpside Jobs system can be configured to provide notices free of charge, or require a credit card for payment. Ads will not be displayed on the website until payment is made. All payments will be processed using online credit card processing at Verisign.

All the employment ads submitted to your website are available for browsing in a large variety of categories or can be searched using keywords or by a specific notice number.
